

bizzard began and for a good portion of the way Lindbergh was forced to rely entirely on his compass for direction. When the snow first became a serious handicap he was able to guide himself by flying lower, but the blizzard was even too heavy for him to do this.

Leaving Lake Champlain, Lindbergh cut across country and met the St. Lawrence river about eight miles above Quebec. Circling over the city several times the flyer swooped down on Battlefield park. He landed at 8:45.

Doctors and nurses were working over Bennett when they heard the roar of the airplane overhead. Some one suggested it might be Lindbergh.

"It couldn't be," another one said. "It hasn't been four hours since he left New York."

Lindbergh had flown straight to his mark.

Met by Byrd on Landing.

Lindbergh brought the machine to a dead stop at Battlefield park. Out jumped the man and followed quickly by Applegeat. Commander Richard Byrd came out of the run. He went first to greet Lindbergh. They shook hands. "Where's the serum?" said Byrd.

"Applegeat has it," Lindbergh replied, and Byrd gathered it up and set out at once on the run for an automobile for the hospital.

Bennett is a close friend of Byrd's and had been selected by him the second in command on the proposed flight over the north pole this summer. He accompanied Byrd on his north polar flight last year and has long been known as one of the greatest of all American pilots.

When Byrd arrived at the hospital the doctors were at the door to meet him. They seized the basket of serum and the white mice and went at once to the laboratories.

The first thing to ascertain, they said, was the exact type of Bennett's pneumonia. It was found that type known as "number one," the serum Lindbergh brought would be very efficacious in restoring the patient to health. It, however, is found that Bennett is suffering from "types two, three, or four," the serum will be of virtually no value.

Enthusiasm for Lindbergh.

In spite of the fact that Lindbergh had been expected to stop at Montreal and make the remainder of the trip by special train, a large crowd had gathered at Battlefield park.

Police reinforcements kept the excited thousands from breaking across the field. There was wild enthusiasm. When asked about Bennett's condition immediately his foot touched the ground.

Lindbergh remained behind on the field to cover the motor of his plane for the night, and then, while

KILLS HIMSELF TO END FEAR AFTER GETTING BLACK HAND LETTER

Pietro Rossano, 47, of 1102 Taylor street, received a letter six weeks ago.

It was a Black Hand letter. "Meet me at Halsted and Taylor with $500 or you die," was the message.

Rossano, a poor carpenter with six children, was puzzled at first. He knew of no enemies. Then he began to worry. He didn't have the $500 and he couldn't raise it among his friends.

The inability to pay and the threat of impending doom began to effect his mind.

Yesterday he saw his brother, Frank, at 3632 Emerald avenue. "I'm sick," he said. Frank sent him to the Mother Cabrini hospital at Racine avenue and Gilpin place. A short time later he became violent and the Maxwell street police were asked to send a patrol wagon to remove him to the psychiatric hospital.

It was too late when the police arrived. Rossano had shaken off his shackles and plunged from a second story window to the ground. The fall killed him. His widow and daughter turned over to Berga, Slattery and Curran the note that caused his death.

Women Become Excited.

The crowd stood back courteously and allowed him to pass through GREENLY ISLAND LIGHT-HOUSE, by courtesy to Point Amour, April 24.—Maj. James Fitzmaurice, Capt. Hermann Koehl, and Baron Gunther von Huenfeld hoped tonight that they could take off tomorrow morning in their trans-Atlantic airplane Bremen for New York. Not until past midafternoon today did they give up their plan to fly south before night. Once during the afternoon the Bremen's motors were running and the flyers were in the plane, ready for start. "But something was wrong and finally they gave up plans to start today."

Commander Byrd assured him that this detail had been straightened out, and Bennett smiled as he grasped Commander Byrd's hand.

The interview of Bennett and Commander Byrd was very brief. The latter, on leaving, said to Bennett: "Hurry up and get well."

Bennett assured him he would be "out of the hospital in no time."

Awaits Favorable Weather.

CHICAGO TRUCK DRIVER DIES IN CROSSING CRASH

A Chicago truck driver, Sam Katsingmanos, was killed and the locomotive of a Pennsylvania passenger train was disabled yesterday in a grade crossing crash at Hammond, Ind.

Traffic on the line was tied up for an hour before a relief locomotive arrived from Chicago to take the train on to the terminal. The truck, owned by the Interstate Cartage company, was demolished.

Automobile accidents in Cook county caused one death during the day. The motor toll was increased to 279 since Jan. 1. Miss Eleanor Tolley, 25 years old, 5126 Kimbark avenue, was killed and four companions injured in an early morning crash between State automobile and a milk truck at State and 47th street. The party was on the home from a cabaret.

Three men, Timo Yerko, 29, of 5941 State, Charles Caffer, 28, of 5137 Justine street, and Charles Barts, 28, of 5521 South Fairfield avenue, yesterday were killed in a collision between a car and a truck bearing the license number 1000. The accident occurred at 4:30 a.m. on State and 47th street. The party was on their way to a cabaret.

MAJOR'S FRIENDS RECALL WARTIME LOWDEN CLASH

Explain "Draft Coolidge" and Small Alliance.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

An explanatory footnote, divulging the whereabouts of Mayor Thompson's America First and Draft Coolidge campaign, the mayor's intimates say, is now reviving his open clash during the world war with Frank O. Lowden, then governor of Illinois, over the council of peace.

Copies of the opinion of Corporation Counsel Samuel A. Etelson, Sept. 18, 1917, in which Mayor Thompson's action in offering a $100,000 loan to the wartime pacifists after they had been chased out of other states, are being distributed in endeavoring to clear the legend of "office of corporation counsel." With them is a letter on water meters.

Lowden Fight Explained.
Etelson's literary product is being circulated, the politicians hold, as a reminder to Thompson's followers of the reasons the mayor is called Mr. Lowden, and why Draft Coolidge was started. Likewise it is quoted as indicative of why the key-note of the alliance between Thompson and Small was a movement to keep Lowden from getting Illinois' national delegate. If Thompson had been elected he would have called the state convention.

The clash in 1917 between Thompson and Gov. Lowden grew over a number of pacifists. The United States had been in the war five months when the council of peace said that the United States should have a convention. It was closed out of St. Paul, N. D., Minnesota, Iowa, and Milwaukee, and moved towards Chicago.

It's a wartime measure, after an appeal for action from the council of peace. Gov. Lowden wired the Chicago police that such pacifist meetings were not to be held in Illinois, as they were calculated to "produce riot and disorder and obstruct the government."

Governor Calls Troops.

The police stopped the first meeting. Mayor Thompson ordered them not to interfere. Gov. Lowden at once called out the troops, and while four companies were rushing to Chicago the council held a meeting under police protection.

After six war veterans tried an appeal to the mayor to a lamp post on Michigan avenue, the city council voted a vote of 42 to 6, rebuked Thompson and commended Lowden "for his aggressive effort to prevent the blotch of disloyalty." Mayor Thompson voted in the resolution, but it was not passed over his veto.

Later Mr. Etelson wrote an opinion condemning the mayor, and this document is now being distributed from the city hall.

Candidates Pledge Cleanup.

Candidates of their campaigns were seen before groups of women voters yesterday by two candidates. Judge Otto A. Swanson, Republican nominee for state's attorney, and Justice Floyd A. Thompson, Democratic nominee for governor. Both dwelt on "a housecleaning in politics" as the greatest issue. Judge Swanson, addressing the Women's Roosevelt Republican club, reiterated his pledge to break the alliance between crime and politics. He told it down that this was the issue that caused the public revolt which threw the machine at the pre-institutions, he added.

WINS SUIT

LILLIAN GISH.

Los Angeles, Cal., April 24.—(P—) Lillian Gish, screen actress, won the $5,000,000 breach of contract suit brought against her by her Charles Duell, producer, today. A jury verdict for the defendant in the trial was returned when the court instructed that such a verdict be given on the grounds that all the issues of the case previously had been adjudicated in the federal court in New York.

marries, and that this is the issue to be emphasized in his fight, no matter whether the judicial convention, under the Chicago Crops control, on May 2, would hold a convention. It was closed out of St. Paul, N. D., Minnesota, Iowa, and Milwaukee, and moved towards Chicago.

U. S. GRAND JURY OPENS INQUIRY ON POLLS TERRORISM

Witnesses Quizzed About Granady Killing.

Federal grand jury investigation was started yesterday into the primary day terrorism and the slaying of Octavius Granady, colored attorney, who was opposing Morris Eiler for Republican committeeman of the Twentieth ward.

Twenty persons, white and colored, who were active in the west side ward on primary day were in the federal grand jury anteroom yesterday. They were first interrogated by Attorneys Charles Center Case and Francis X. Busch, representing the Chicago Bar association in the vote fraud investigation.

Grand Jury Hears Testimony.

The witnesses were then turned over to Allen Healy, assistant United States district attorney, and were questioned before the grand jury. A strong police guard was maintained for the witness.

Federal authorities stated they were laying a foundation for indictments on charges of violating the fourteenth amendment, which guarantees the Negro the right of suffrage. Liens, running activities of the hoodlums employed on primary day to terrorize voters were reported to have been uncovered by the investigation.

Yager Taken Into Custody.

Benjamin Yager, 26th ward strong arm man, was taken into custody by police during the day. He was taken before the federal grand jury and questioned. It was stated that a state charge of kidnapping in connection with primary day activities will be made against him.

Attorneys Case and Busch held a conference with United States district Attorney George E. Q. Johnson and Mr. Healy. None would reveal the purpose of their meeting except to say that the investigation would continue before the grand jury.

The voters were registering their protest against conditions they existed.

"Now that the primary is over, I still keep in mind my promises, I intend to carry them out in spirit and in letter."

BIND SHOP OWNER, POSE AS CLERKS AND ROB PATRONS

Harry Wallbrun, haberdasher at 2729 North Clark street, his clerk, David Amstar, 914 Alinsle street, and three customers were robbed, gagged, and bound last evening by two armed men who posed first as customers and then as clerks in the store.

Wallbrun was alone when the pair entered. He first looked at hats, then drew his pistol and forced the proprietor into a rear room. There they tied and gagged him with the most expensive neckties in his stock. Amstar was seized when he entered the store. From the owner $155 and a $150 ring were taken; from the clerk, $50.

ILLS. ILLINOIS MINES DRAG ON BUTHER BUSINESS

A. D. Morrow Wants
Coal Union Ousted.

Health sake next winter, are beautifully finished furniture. In fact a window seat in the sun parlor, all the strength of warmth and beauty finished in Mahogany Old Ivory. The copper finish will not show water spots. And seventy sizes of cases are carried in stores because and tremendous... We will gladly radiators and submit our obligation.

Illinois Law.

Illinois operators, Mr. Morrow is greatly handicapped by the qualification law, which is so strict as to make it impossible for one to work in Illinois unless he is not a member of the union. He, however, had exercised powers to prevent the development of the industry in this state, and when mechanical loading devices had been introduced these were outlawed by the union pit committee, that might order them out at any time.

During the industry as a whole, the leader of the union led by John L. Lewis had driven 160,000,000 tons of coal from the north and the south fields, he said, and had cost the many thousand members.

Illinois Industrial Changes.

Mr. Morrow suggested four points of organization of the industry, a union which is now before the special committee of the United States Senate. These points are:

—Freedom from the United Mine Workers of America as at present constituted and led.

—Introduction of scientific production of coal.

—Consolidation of producers into new groupings.

—Better marketing methods.

The coal business must learn, he said, concerning the four points of organization, for what is at stake, American manufacturing industry today is founded on the basis of screenings at prices far below their cost of production. The manufacturing and transportation industries are taking $100,000,000 a year out of the coal industry, which they expect to keep on taking.

Pure Mine Consolidations.

"In my view," he added, "the intention of producing units which will be permanent, constructive between our business, will be combinations which will affiliate in one organization with associated outlets for large tonnages of coal. In other words, they will associate consumer groups with them, which will provide an assured backlog of tonnage for combinations."

UNION MINERS AT WORK ROUT RADICAL PICKETS

Wield Clubs, Hurl Stones
as Agitators Flee.

Springfield, Ill., April 24.—(AP)—Incessant at being called scabs, union miners in Illinois have organized an organized attack on pickets at the Old West mine of the Panther Creek company near here today and drove them from the roadways near the mine.

Two pickets, adherents to the policies of the "save the union" organization, were slightly injured, and one, Francesco Alfonso, was arrested for carrying a concealed weapon.

Armed with Clubs.

As the mine whistle blew for work this morning the miners, following a plan decided upon at a mass meeting last night, advanced in a line from behind the mine buildings and charged the "save the union" pickets. Miners were armed with clubs and rocks.

A few shots fired at the ground by deputy sheriffs, who have been on guard at the mine for more than a week, anticipating a clash, failed to stop the miners' advance. As they neared the picket lines, 75 pickets broke and ran, the miners pursuing them through fields and woods until the place was cleared.

"WALKING FLU" IS HERE, KEGEL WARNS; TELLS WHAT TO DO

You have the "walking flu?" If you do and cough, pronounce spring "sprie" and aches a little all over you can do and had better look out or real influenza will get you. Health Commissioner A. H. Kegel warned yesterday.

Dr. Kegel adopted the phrase "walking flu" to describe cases of an ailment which has reached the epidemic stage in Chicago. It differs from an ordinary cold in that it lasts longer, is more likely to go into the chest, and is accompanied by a tired feeling.

"Keep on the heaves, eat a light diet with plenty of fruit, sleep regularly, and go to bed if you become ill," said the Commissioner's advice to sufferers. He believes the epidemic will subside with the arrival of permanent warm weather.

Let me explain further today.

"I GOT $759,500 IN OIL BONDS," STEWART SAYS

Denies He Profited by Secret Deal.

of the bond fund to stop clipping coupons in June, 1924, after the oil scandals had been exposed. Stewart flared up again and the crowded courtroom expected to see a repetition of the scene last February, when the two exchanged hot shots.

At the outset of his testimony Stewart declared that following the conclusion of the Continental deal a barbecue celebrating his $50,000,000 sum of oil was arranged by the late A. E. Humphreys. A number of those who had participated in the deal, including Ossler, came through Chicago en route to Mexia, Tex., where the celebration was to be held.

OSLER TENDERS PROFIT

"Mr. Ossler, as I remember it, came in to Chicago on the morning of Saturday, the 26th of November, 1921, and came to my office on his way to Mexia to fill this engagement there," declared Col. Stewart. "I don't remember the words Mr. Ossler used, but he indicated to me that part of the profits of these contracts were going to be handed to me."

"I told Mr. Ossler, 'I don't care to have any of these profits. I do not think I am entitled to them.' 'Well,' he said, 'you can do what you want to about this matter of expending this money.' And that was the first time that I knew there was going to be a disposition on the part of any one to give me any part of the profits."

"I asked him if he had any right, that the question arose of the right I had to use these bonds if they came to me, or these profits if they came to me, and after considerable consideration that morning and afternoon I decided to trust any profits that came to me or that were handed to me by Mr. Ossler in that transaction.

Creates Trust Fund

"I called in the tax commissioner of my company, Mr. Roy J. Barnett, and told him in general what the circumstances of my participation in these profits which were to be handed to me, that I did not think I had any right to take them, that they belonged to the companies, one or the other of them, and asked him if he would agree to act as trustee, and I sat down and wrote a trust agreement."

"I provided that any profits he received should be invested in government Liberty bonds, and an interest upon them which I received or which he was to collect should be invested by him in additional investment Liberty bonds. That contract was drawn in the afternoon of Saturday, the 26th day of November, 1921, and at six o'clock that evening I started for Mexia with all of these other people."

The agreement, Stewart continued, was in a sealed envelope and put in his safe deposit box after it

Trust Agreement in "Oil" Deal

Washington, D. C., April 24.—(CP)—The text of the Stewart trust agreement for handling Continental profits follows:

Know all men by these presents, that I, Robert W. Stewart, of the city of Chicago, in the state of Illinois, for and in consideration of good and valuable consideration, the receipt whereof is hereby acknowledged, do hereby sell, assign, transfer, convey, and set over to the said Roy J. Barnett in trust as hereinafter mentioned all my right, title and interest of every kind and character, in and to all contracts or agreements of any kind or character made or to be made by A. E. Humphreys of Denver, Colo., or the Humphreys Texas company, a Delaware corporation, or the Humphreys Mexican company or Humphreys Texas company or their successors or assigns in the state of Texas, hereby transferring, conveying, and assigning to said Roy J. Barnett all my right, title and interest in and to any profits or alleged profits that shall accrue from any such contract or agreement and relating to the Roy J. Barnett funds and authority to receive and hold same, all, however, in trust for the Standard Oil company in Indiana corporation and Sinclair Crude Oil Purchasing company, a Delaware corporation, as their interests in and to said profits or alleged profits and in and to said contracts and/or agreements shall appear or be settled by between said Standard Oil company and had been inscribed on the outside. "In case of my death this envelope is to be opened by my executors or administrators in the presence of the then treasurers of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana and the Sinclair Crude Oil Purchasing company."

Subsequently Ossler delivered several packages of bonds usually in the Belmont hotel in New York which were turned over to me until a total of $759,500 was reached. From time to time, as the semi-annual interest coupons were clipped, Stewart testified today, he gave Barnett other bonds from his holdings in exchange for the coupons. This accounts, Stewart explained, for the deposits of Liberty bonds coupon proceeds found in his accounts by the committee's investigators.

"I have never had those bonds in my possession as the owner of them at all," declared Stewart. "I am sure the fact that the trust agreement was executed before any of the oil from the profits accrued was exchanged. 'I have not been in possession of them except as a mere conduit from Mr. Ossler to the trustee, and those are the facts as far as I know them with regard to those bonds."

Col. Stewart also testified for a few moments while W. O. Williams, register of the federal treasury, and Mrs. Myrtle Norton, chief of the coupon division in the treasury, told how coupons sent to the treasury from the federal reserve bank in Chicago had been identified by their registry numbers as Continental Trading company bonds.

STEWART IS RECALLED

Col. Stewart recalled, refused to admit that the testimony of the two men that the coupons identified in their testimony had been received by the Chicago federal reserve bank from the Continental and Commercial National bank where he deposited his and concluded an outburst by telling Senator Walsh, "I think you are forty rows of apple trees from proving that fact."

"Did you not hear the testimony of the registrar that in the natural course of business the Continental and Commercial National bank would turn over to the federal reserve bank all coupons deposited?" asked Senator Walsh.

"So would the First National and the other thirty or forty banks in Chicago," retorted Stewart.

"No Receipt for Bonds."

Stewart admitted that he had taken no record when he turned the bonds over to Barnett, and Senator Bratton (Dem., N. J.) took up the examination. "Did I understand you to say that the coupons were clipped from these bonds as they fell due December of 1924?" asked Senator Bratton.

"Early in 1920 the Standard Oil Company of Indiana had a better claim to Teapot Dome than any other oil company did—a better right to own leases in there, didn't it?" asked Senator Ny.

"What!" thundered Stewart, banging the table with his fist. "The Standard Oil Company of Indiana had a claim to Teapot Dome? Why, you are crazy."

"Very well, I have been accused of that before," said Senator Ny.

"The Standard Oil Company of Indiana never had any claim to Teapot of any kind or character," asserted Stewart, still angry. "I don't think the Standard of Indiana had a shadow of a claim on the Teapot Dome. It never has had and it has not today."

Q.—Well, colonel, if you decided that you did not want publicity, and went to the extent of requesting Mr. Barnett not to clip any more coupons in order to avoid publicity, you must have had a reason for it. A.—Well, if I did it does not occur to me now except that I simply wanted to avoid publicity.

They Needed That Oil.

Q.—Why did you decide to handle this through a trust agreement instead of just turning the bonds themselves over to the two companies to be kept and owned or disposed of as they might agree between themselves?

"Senator, I have tried to explain to you that we wanted this oil very badly. I did not want to stir up anything in regard to it. I thought this was an awfully good contract for the companies and that it was desirable for us to get this oil. I did not want to stir up any resentment or do anything that might prevent the carrying out of those agreements. Now my decision at that time was made reasonably quick, made in a hurry, it was to protect these bonds. I thought by acting that way the rights of the people, both the Standard Oil company of Indiana and the Sinclair Crude Oil Purchasing company would be thoroughly taken care of."

"I am trying sincerely to find out what this contract means," asserted Senator Cutting.

"Senator, I don't think you are doing any such thing," said Stewart.

"I am not sure that you do not think so," answered Senator Cutting. "It is not up to you to decide."

"When the two engaged in another conference together, Stewart would admit that the arrangement was not an 'unusual procedure,'" Senator Walsh interrupted with the advice that Stewart might give his view of the matter, at least.

"Thank you, senator," said Stewart, regaining his composure at once.

Milwaukee, Wis., April 24.—[Special.]—A signal victory for labor was registered in federal court here today when a jury brought in a verdict of not guilty in the cases of twenty-six employees of the Alien A company of Kenosha, who were charged with contempt of court for violation of a restraining order issued by Federal Judge F. A. Geiger. The jury took twenty-one ballots before a verdict was reached. The first ballot stood 8 to 4 for acquittal.

It is believed by court officials to be the first time on record that a jury has been given the opportunity to decide if there was a conspiracy to violate the injunction against picketing as issued in federal court.

Therefore, decision in such cases has rested upon the court according to counsel for the defendants.

PILOT OF POLAR PLANE TELLS OF ARCTIC THRILLS

Fly to Goal or Walk for Year, Was Prospect.

By CAPT. GEORGE H. WILKINS

[Copyright 1928: In the United States and throughout the world: By the New York Times Company. By wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune.]

GREEN HARBOR, Spitsbergen, April 24.—Well relieved, we are enjoying the comforts of the base at Green Harbor radio station and the splendid hospitality of the Norwegian officials.

It is possible that we may not be able to leave here by boat until after the middle of May. It would be impossible to take off in a machine fitted with wheels from the snow and ice, and it would be hazardous to attempt a landing on any but a snow covered country with the skis we have, so we must wait patiently for steamship transportation. I will send my third story on the flight tomorrow. Ellison submits the following:

EILSON'S OWN STORY

By LIEUT. CARL EILSON

(Pilot of the Wilkins Lockheed Virda Airplane.)

Our recent flight over the Arctic ocean has been the culmination of many years of Arctic flying for me.

In 1927 I took plane to Fairbanks to establish a flying service in competition with the dog sled transportation.

It was the only airplane in Alaska.

In 1924 I received a winter mail contract from the United States post office department between Fairbanks and McGrath. This was in the nature of an experiment. It was the first winter flying that had been done so far north in the world.

Three years of carrying prospectors, sick men, mail and supplies were most interesting. Fifteen minutes of flying in Arctic weather is as trying as a "hard day's travel by dog team."

After having flown in circles for years in the states, it was gratifying to feel that the airplane could be of so great service. With Capt. Wilkins in 1926, I made my first flight to the Arctic coast. Here was another step. We began a Fokker monoplane.

Dangers Become Commonplace.

I shall always remember that first flight over the 9,000 foot Endicott mountains. It is a bleak, uninhabited country, so rough that even birds would not walk, rather than fly over it. It seemed to me then, that we have crossed it so many times since that it seems now quite commonplace.

After the magnificent interior of Alaska, the north coast seems like a different world—no timber and for hundreds of miles nothing but snow and ice and chill winds. The snow covered ground blended with the sky

Dr. Plane with 25 Dogs.
We then hitched twenty-five dogs to the plane and dragged it to a lagoon six miles northeast, where there was a thirty mile runway if necessary. The ice here was rougher, but we cleared a runway a mile long and made it quite smooth by digging down the rough spots with a pick.

On April 18, everything was in readiness. We had great hope this time of getting into the air. At 10 o'clock in the morning I gave her the gun. We started slowly up the runway. It was difficult to keep straight.

We had only a foot and a half clearance for the tail on either side, and as a small swerve of the machine would mean a wreck and wait of five months for another machine, we started the machine straight until we got up speed of eighty miles per hour. Then the plane easily took off into the air and we had a feeling of triumph as we rose. The takeoff was my greatest anxiety.

And Maybe a Year's Walk.

After thirteen hours in the air we could see great cloud masses far south. It was undoubtedly clouds of Grant Land and we zigzagged many miles to the west in search of land, the indications of which had been seen by explorers miles on the north and west.

Our course again, North and then

Capt. Wilkins passed me a note placing our position or inquiring about engine readings or changing our compass course.

His compass was steady and correct, one of mine spun all the time while the other pointed north.

No matter which way we turned and made visibility difficult, because there were no dark objects to focus the eyes upon.

In the first year we made our first flight out over the Arctic ocean, a distance of 150 miles. It was interesting but a bit repulsive to me then, inexperienced as I was in the ways of Arctic living. It looked like certain death or starvation in the case we were forced down.

Walk 18 Days on Ice.

In 1927 we made a 550 mile flight from Point Barrow into the unexplored territory to the northwest. Returning, we ran into a violent storm and were forced to land because of depletion of our gasoline supply, about eighty miles from shore.

The landing was made in dark arctic night, without being able to see anything outside our plane. It was only through luck that we were not crushed on the rough ice below us.

It took us eighteen days of hard walking to reach land. The ice we walked on moved faster than we did. Capt. Wilkins' years of experience in arctic travelling enabled us to return.

Each night we built a snow house to sleep in. By day we hurried across leads of water and huge ice ridges. It was my first real taste of Arctic life. I was surprised to find it was not so bad as I had imagined, if one only knew how to get through.

Longer Than Arctic Hop.

This year was the first time we really planned to go right across the Arctic ocean from Point Barrow to Spitsbergen. That is further than across the Atlantic from Newfoundland to Ireland.

On the Arctic flight, of course, we could get no weather reports. Our engine must run in unusually cold weather conditions and navigation probably would be very difficult because of the proximity of the magnetic pole. Knowing the difficulties, it was the source of the greatest comfort to me to observe that from the start Capt. Wilkins was leaving no stones unturned to take care of every possible eventuality.

The three vain attempts we made to get off the ice at Point Barrow before we succeeded were thrilling. The smoothest ice was on the Barrow island. That was the way we tried first to get off, although it was only 3,500 feet long. With the help of an

No sensible person will continue to suffer from those intense arctic colds if he uses the special oil which Moone's Emerald Oil and Wabash stores have. Emerald Oil sells it with an absolute guarantee of satisfaction or money back.

Your feet may be so swollen and inflamed that you can't walk another step. Your shoes may feel as if they are cutting right into the flesh. You may sit in a chair in the cold and torture. You'll give anything to get relief, wouldn't you? Then try this:

For men, apply Moone's Emerald Oil and in fifteen minutes the pain and soreness disappears. A few drops of oil between the toes and the swelling reduces.

And best of all, any offensive odor is gone. Moone's Emerald Oil is a unique combination of medicinal with camphor and other antiseptics—so many good qualities that it is sold annually. Every good druggist carries Moone's Emerald Oil and you can buy it from the International Lab., Rochester, New York.

white mountains of Greenland far to the south. We were now only 600 miles from Spitsbergen, or Svalbard, as it is now called. In a few hours we saw clouds ahead. We cleared them at 8,000 feet. They extended almost to the water and we were afraid that the islands and water around them might be covered with clouds, making it dangerous to come down here for fear of hitting mountains.

they were both useless. I kept the course by the midnight sun. Things though painted on the dashboard, and I celebrated by having a stick of gum. It was quite an event. I wished for a smoke, but there was too much gasoline and ether around. The temperature went down until it reached 48 below zero Fahrenheit, but the cockpit was not uncomfortable, as we were well shielded and we were well wrapped in furs.

Sight Mountains of Spitsbergen.

The winds blew up and temperature rose quickly. We were getting into the influence of the gulf stream. Our gas gauge showed only thirty gallons left, but soon we were relieved to see to the right of the mountains Spitsbergen at last! We dived through a hole in the clouds and found ourselves in a storm. The air was thick with drifting snow and the plane rocked and bucked in the air currents like a bronco. We knew that we had better land as soon as possible, so it would be impossible to see Kings Bay, even if we were close to it. We were over an island. We returned to the mainland. I went down, scarcely seeing anything, and quickly landed in the deep snow.

After a few hours we sighted the

CANVASS SHOWS QUEER VOTING IN CHICAGO HEIGHTS

Results Entered as True
by Election Board.

BY OSCAR HEWITT:
Several queer precinct returns were brought to light yesterday in the canvass of the Chicago Heights primary by the board of election commissioners.
In the First precinct of the 15th ward the poll books show 375 voters. Yet the returns on the Republican contest for state's attorney were 386 votes for Crowe, four for Lan-dus, and six for Swanson. One more vote was cast for the candidates than there were voters.

Frank L. Smith, candidate for United States senator, is credited as winning with 289 votes. Gov. Small was given the same number. Otis F. Glenn, Smith's opponent, was assured only eight votes. E. J. Timmons, who beat Small for governor by 400,000, was chalked up with only 9 votes.

Crowe, 2,582; Swanson, 41.

In the First and Second precincts in each of the Third, Fourth, and Fifth wards, State's Attorney Crowe has a total of 2,585 votes to 41 for Swanson in the returns, but as far as is true yesterday in the election board's canvass.

The Second precinct of the 15th ward shows 602 votes for Crowe and only four for Swanson. One man is credited as having voted for Landus.
It so happens that the poll books show exactly 597 persons voted in this precinct. For governor the queer looking, but official, returns may.

show 593 for Small and 9 for Emmerson again exactly 601.

Another feature of the Chicago Heights canvass that the commissioners is revealed by a comparison of the vote for United States senator, governor, and state's attorney. In the First and Second precincts in both the Third and Fifth wards and in the Second precinct of the Fourth ward, Crowe received a total of 2,245 votes, according to the official returns.
Similarly in the First precinct of the Fourth ward the total for Small was only 1,113 votes, 29 less than for state's attorney. The vote for Smith for senator was 221 less than for Democrat Votes Canvassed.

The canvass of votes yesterday related principally to Democratic candidates. About 1,400 precincts were put through the mill. The only interest in the proceedings was shown by William O'Farrell, a cool dealer, who claims he has broken the Democratic state for state auditor.

Seven defendants are to appear this morning before County Judge Jarecki, charged either with fraudulent voting or fraudulent registration in the prior precinct. For governor the queer looking, but official, returns may.

FATHER KILLS MOTHER OF SEVEN, ENDS OWN LIFE

After witnessing the murder of their mother five small children screamed for more than an hour yesterday when they found themselves alone in their home at 8322 West 42d place, Lyons.
Two of the children were not at home at the time.

Neighbors finally were attracted to the house and there they found the beheaded body of Mrs. Joseph Jaeger, 35 years old. Almost at the same time the body of her husband was found in Brookfield, where he had apparently thrown himself under the wheels of a Burlington train.

Police believe that Jaeger cut off his wife's head with an ax following a quarrel and then committed suicide.
The couple had quarreled frequently, it was learned. On Monday the police were called to the home to quiet the disturbance and were told by Mrs.
Jaeger that she feared her husband was going crazy.

MR. KELLOGG AND M. BRIAND.

Mr. Kellogg seems to have a better chance of picking up a prospective customer for the renunciation of war elsewhere in Europe than in France. Germany is cordial and Great Britain is at least well disposed, but Briand, in Washington opinion, gets further from the idea with every fresh batch of correspondence. It is Washington report that his latest outlawry proposal, stated in a preamble and six articles, cannot be made the basis of anything satisfactory to the American government. Briand would renounce war except in self-defense, in compliance with the obligations to the league of nations or in fulfillment of other treaties. The scheme of defense which is included in the agreements with the smaller nations of central Europe would stand.

The state department perceives that this just abdols down to a declaration that France will refrain from beginning what it would consider an aggressive war against any nation with which a renunciation treaty had been signed. It being out of all moral consideration now that any nation would begin what it would consider to be a war of aggression, except against brown or black brothers, the French negotiators seem to be in a revolving door, coming out where they go in.

Before any sensible nation would undertake a war it would arrange to be attacked or to have the necessity of resorting to force presented by the obligatory terms of a treaty. It would not present itself in the wrong to declare itself in the right.

We hope that Mr. Kellogg is really full of guile, domestic stratagems and ulterior purposes. We hope that he is really countering against American pacifism by insisting upon a confident idealism which no one in Europe will take undiluted and that he will insist there shall be no reservations whatever. Then the American government will appear as the author of the most altruistic scheme of perpetual peace ever offered and if all the other nations shy off it no particular damage will be done.

It is not to be believed that any war otherwise preventable will occur because these renunciation treaties failed or that any war not otherwise preventable will be kept from distressing the earth because these treaties were signed. But it is to be believed if the United States were signed up to many treaties in which war was renounced forever that the responsible defenses of the nation would gradually go down before the then logical insistence of pacifists that a nation which never is going to war does not need to appropriate any money for defense. Such appropriations would be held to be inconsistent with treaties and hypotheses.

It would be interesting to have the state department say just what answer would be made to that or how the war department and the navy department would explain themselves in the face of the achievements of the state department—on paper.

Therefore the hope that Mr. Kellogg is really as full of guile as a wooden nutmeg trader and that his objective is the Bok and Carnegie Peace foundations, the World Alliance for Peace, and the many American organizations who want to see the entire American defense in a scrap heap.

WOMEN VOTERS.

The League of Women Voters has been meeting in Chicago for the discussion and consideration of questions affecting American life in political action and government. The women of the organization, as comparative newcomers in the electoral field, present the idea that they have certain common interests as voters. The franchise in itself creates particular obligations and requires particular equipment of information and opinion.

The idea is sound and it hasn't the general acceptance it could have with benefit in public life. It is more generally believed that at least the American male when he has arrived at twenty-one has been endowed with all the abilities needed for political decision. Experience doesn't always prove this up in election returns, but the instinct persists that all an American citizen has to do is to present himself at a polling place with a pencil and that under his hat there is everything the nation needs for its future welfare as controlled by what he puts in the ballot box. By and large the scheme works, but somewhat by a miracle against many of its probabilities.

THE TOWN HALL.

The town hall project is back where it started. The Supreme court in its decision found that the legislature had tried to do two things in the enabling act and had violated the prohibition against embracing two subjects in a bill and therefore was "required to hold the act invalid in toto." With the understanding that the defect in the procedure was merely that sufficient time had not been allowed in submitting the $10,000,000 bond issue the county board was prepared to resubmit it at the election June 4. The error was not in the election but in the act. Another enabling act must be had before the bonds can be submitted again.

The town hall project was pointed at the national conventions of 1928, but it is destined for a much larger part in city life than usefulness every four years in getting and housing political conventions. For things that need a roof it is to be what Soldiers' field is for out of door activities. It is unfortunate that there is a setback, but the promoters in their haste failed to procure a valid bill. That error in legislation is something which experience has not yet obviated.

The people endorsed the project so heartily that it is probable there will be no definite loss beyond that of time. The hall is needed and the project can be kept warm until authority in proper form can be obtained.

PAY THE SOUTHERN DEBTS.

International courtesy, Mr. Locker-Lampson, undersecretary for foreign affairs, told the house of commons, forbids Great Britain's asking the United States to settle the old debts owed British subjects by eight southern states.

If this is so, then international justice, we suggest, demands that the United States take the initiative and propose a settlement to Great Britain.

As has been made clear on many occasions, the debts fall into three categories—those contracted before the civil war, those contracted during the civil war when the borrowing states were in rebellion, and those contracted following the war. The United States has an obligation only in the first class and the last. British subjects who loaned money to the states in secession took a calculated risk, lost, and have no recourse. But as to the other debts, the American course of honor is clear.

It is clear beyond dispute in the case of those debts incurred following the war by carpet bag governments foisted on the southern states and maintained in power by the federal armies. And in the case of those debts incurred before the war, though the federal government had no obligation in them, though the southern states themselves are today the true debtors, still the cause of maintaining American financial integrity is so much the larger issue that the question of technical responsibility should be passed over.

There is an exact and forceful precedent for the assumption of the debts of the southern states by the federal government. The Jay treaty with Great Britain following the conclusion of the revolutionary war stipulated that the new central government of the United States should settle certain classes of colonial and private debts owed to British citizens. An argument arising over the admissibility of certain cases, the United States proposed a settlement with Great Britain in a lump sum, the creditors to be reimbursed by their five per cent loss in their money transactions, their coal bill, light bill, or any other item of expense.

Besides fever, measles and other forms of major communicable disease, there are of trifling importance among high school pupils. This entire class of disorders causes a loss of only 65 days in this group of nearly 4,500 pupils in a period of one and a half years.

The average absentee rate among all the pupils during all the time was 5.43 per cent, as compared with an average of the United States army of 5.37 per cent. These experiences would indicate that those who are absent from school, a factory, or a printing plant and who employs one hundred people, can expect about five of them to be absent on any given day. The business man who does not figure that in is likely to be misled. He would not dare overwork a five per cent loss in his money transactions, his coal bill, light bill, or any other item of expense.

The principal cause of trouble was the common cold. It was followed by sore throats, coughs, and headaches.

The highest sickness rate was in January. Sickness was low in summer, increased until October, and then fell, rose to high in April, and then fell to stay down through the summer.

AL SMITH FRESH FROM THE SOUTH.

Gov. Al Smith has had his little nonpolitical visit in the south, at Asheville. It was a good place for golf and, although the governor was not there to talk politics and by common report did not, contact with many interested southern leaders could not be avoided. They came to see him and he "absorbed a vast amount of knowledge," and "heard at first hand of the problems confronting the south."

Evidently he has been impressed and has been impressive. The sectional advantages of having a Democratic President in Washington are nowhere better understood or more highly regarded than in the south, and it is more than a guess that many of its most distinguished citizens wish they could reconcile southern preconceptions to the many fascinations of Mr. Smith's candidacy.

They easily can get a man who is long on sectional qualifications and short on prospects. Out of which may come in November exactly nothing.

The alternative is bound to have its attractiveness and if it is the eighteenth amendment which issues the moral call for another sacrifice of corn casks for principle, it might be considered that the south ought not to have much more difficulty in enforcing that amendment, regardless of a Democratic President, than it has in not enforcing the fourteenth and fifteenth in spite of a Republican President.

PROHIBITION LEADERSHIP.

(New York Evening Post.)

The committee on national affairs of the National Republican club is to be deeply congratulated upon assuming the duty of prohibition leadership which has thus far been shunned by the candidates for the presidential nomination.

The form in which it presents to the vote of the club members a program of modification is of the highest interest. The resolution reads:

Resolved, That the National Republican club urges the incorporation in the party platform at the next Republican national convention of a plank advocating the restoration of the American form of government, of an indivisible union of indestructible states, by repeal of the eighteenth amendment, and reaffirming the following fourth plank of the Lincoln platform:

The maintenance in violation of the rights of the states and especially the right of each state to order and control its own domestic institutions according to its own judgment exclusively, is essential to that balance of power on which the perfection and endurance of our political fabric depends.

This the most austere of constitutional positions it is that of Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler and is probably inspired by him. It takes no account of whether the eighteenth amendment prohibits liquor or chewing gum; it opposes the theory of any constitutional provision of that character on the ground that it runs directly athwart the theory upon which our government is built. Men like Dr. Butler have a passionate resentment of this sin committed against the fundamentals of America. Fanatical drys cannot credit it, but it remains a fact that this revolt is both spiritual and intellectual and is not in the least inspired by the desire to drink alcohol.

This modification should be presented in this form places the whole proceeding upon the high plane of law instead of appetite. The substitute resolution offered by ex-Senator Calder for a national referendum on prohibition would have satisfied many wets, we had hoped, indeed, that this would be the position of Mr. Hoover. But if we are to have a real plank and a real fight on the wet and dry issue, let us by all means start it on the highest level possible.

We hope that the club membership will uphold the committee's resolution in Tuesday's vote and thus a definite suggestion before the resolutions committee at Kansas City.

SICKNESS SERIOUS MENACE TO PROGRESS.

HIGH school students are much healthier than grammar school students. Nevertheless, sickness in students is a serious menace to their progress. A study made of 1,497 students in the seventh to the twelfth grades in Oakland, Calif., shows that sickness is a serious school problem. The study lasted one and a half years.

Those who made the study found that sixty per cent of all absenteeism was due to sickness. The total number of school days lost, figured for the whole number of students and the entire period of study, was 21,391. Of these, 12,064 were lost as a result of some kind of illness.

There were days when the absentee rate was higher than eight per cent. This would mean four were absent from each 50 pupils. Many teachers of grade pupils would not regard this as excessively high. There have been seasons when the absences in their schools averaged much higher than four to the room. They will agree that sickness is less important in older children.

The sickness absentee rate was higher among girls than among boys in the grades above the seventh. Whatever it was that caused the higher rate among girls was not operative in the lower grades.

The average absentee rate among all the pupils during all the time was 5.43 per cent, as compared with an average of the United States army of 5.37 per cent. These experiences would indicate that those who are absent from school, a factory, or a printing plant and who employs one hundred people, can expect about five of them to be absent on any given day. Poor dolls—they are unloved.

Their little mothers romp afar;

The dolls, they will not miss them—

HOUSE PASSES FLOOD BILL; VETO IS LOOKED FOR

son, Ketcham, McLaughlin, McLeod, Mapes, and Michener, all Republicans. Those from Minnesota who voted in the negative were Representatives Anderson, Knutson, Masa, Newton, Selvig, and Vincent, Republicans, and Kvale, Farmer-Labor.

Iowa members against the bill were Representatives Cole, Kopp, Ramseier, and Robinson, Republicans. Representative Elliott, Republican, was the only Indiana member recorded against it.

Hold Highs Whip Hand. At all times during the debate the flood control group, led by Representative Reid, held the whip hand. Representative Reid obtained the adoption of a number of amendments designed to meet the views of President Coolidge. Many amendments were rejected, among them being one to authorize construction of reservoirs without further action by Congress.

The bill as passed adopts the Judd-Winn plan for strengthening levees on the lower Mississippi and for building floodways for the diversion of water from the main channel and for spillways near the mouth of the river. It is provided, however, that the President may approve features of the more extensive Mississippi river commission plan upon the recommendation of a board composed of the chief of engineers, the president of the Mississippi river commission and a chief engineer appointed by the President.

Cost is on the Government. The federal government would bear the expense of the construction of flood control works and would acquire storage rights as well as rights of ways for levees on floodways and spillways. There is a provision by which local interests would bear one-third of the cost of certain levee construction on tributaries heretofore authorized.

Members from states along tributaries of the Mississippi obtained the approval of provisions directing the army engineers to submit proposals for flood control on tributaries to congress and also to make a study of the question of reservoirs. The reservoirs may be constructed, however, without approval by congress.

Major Thompson of Chicago, who sat in the House gallery yesterday and today, issued a statement congratulating congress upon the passage of the bill.

"This is a 100 per cent American project, petitioned for by the American people to the American government," said Major Thompson.

"The question before the house has been whether the people should be protected or not.

"The passage of the act by an overwhelming vote needs no comment from me. The congress is to be congratulated."

The bill declares for the retention

Spring Find You Tired and Achy?

You Can't Feel Well When Kidneys Act Sluggishly.

Do these spring days find you languid and out of sorts? Too many feel tired and listless in the spring. Too often the cause is sluggish kidneys.

To be well the kidneys must thoroughly cleanse the blood of poisonous waste. Sluggish kidneys permit waste impurities to remain and cause slow poisoning of the system.

One is apt to feel tired and drowsy—have a dull, nagging backache and annoying headaches and dizzy spells. That the kidneys are not working right is often shown by irregular or painful eliminations.

Assist the kidneys with Doan's Pills. Doan's, a stimulant diuretic, increase the activity of the kidneys, and thus aid in the elimination of waste impurities. Doan's have been winning new friends for more than forty years. Ask your neighbor!

ADVERTISE IN THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE

BIG FIRMS SEIZE SITE FERTILIZED FOR HOMESTEADS

A Boulder Dam Lesson in Imperial Valley.

BY HARPER LEECH.

ARTICLE VI.

Calif., April 24.—[Special.] The huge hothouses—with its rank, overpowering fertility and its tyrannical torturing sun, which excites the sensations usually called up by a blast furnace or a rolling mill rather than the normal human reaction to the sun—this is the star which makes all life possible, in man's opinion—but it isn't American agriculture.

The vast drear and desuet of the New England school m'km in the presence of the riotous passionate fertility of the wheat ranches of the San Joaquin valley, as depicted in Frank Norris' unforgettable epic of the wheat, assails the new comer to the valley.

It's exotic. One gapes in vain from the high windows for an American home scene.

A man's social standing in the Valley is said to be measured by the length of time he can keep his wife and kids at some coast or mountain resort outside.

Backed as Reclamation Project.

Now all that has been necessary else's business. The Valley is a great economic fact. The people have accepted the American breakfast-table room from coast to coast. The valley has its own way to date. However, the all American canal project involves a congressional appropriation of $11,000,000 to extend this system of agriculture. The all American canal therefore will put the Imperial Valley on the front of a reclamation project. The American people are bound to spend the vast sums disbursed in the west on irrigation by the piece for farm homes—the creation of small land owning cultivators, who would farm 40, 60, 120 acre tracts.

Perhaps that was mere sentimentalism, but it was the moving cause. Not a cent would have been granted to set up a canal system of agriculture—so promote individualism and the creation of fixed social castes. Just that has happened to a considerable extent on government reclamation projects in the southwest. What has happened in the Imperial Valley? Statistics reveal the story.

An Argument in Figures.

The last complete annual report of the Imperial district shows a total area of 80,000 acres, mostly below sea level, served by a total of 5,000 miles of irrigation water lines, from the Colorado river to 546,400 irrigated acres. Field crops cover 279,856 acres, alfalfa, corn, cotton, and barley accounting for most of the acreage. These crops are partially cultivated by farm owners and American tenants—with machinery.

The population of the district is estimated from 45,000 to 70,000 people, of whom 30,000 or more live in the towns. The permanent population is about 70 per cent American. But the number of farms reporting on crops is only 4,788. Only 1,812 farm owners operate their farms, while 2,957 are operated by tenants. The average farm size is only 58.18 acres, but that figure is deceptive.

For instance, the 27,823 acres in asparagus grown in 1927 were almost entirely cultivated by forty-three fruit corporations, eighteen of them big companies, which leased the lands of many absent owners, grouped them in blocks and farmed them largely with transient labor, mostly Mexican.

One company, which owns no land, cultivated 3,900 acres, another 3,400, most of the cantaloupe acreage runs from 300 to 1,200 per company.

Formerly Japanese leased much of this land and sublet it to their countrymen, but the effect of the California anti-alien land laws was to oust the Japanese and compel the fruit companies to operate direct, as the Japanese does not care to be a hired man in farming.

The distinctive type of agriculture being evolved in the Imperial Valley is the wholesale leasing of small tracts owned by former homesteaders now absentees, by big corporations which farmed the hired Mexican labor. Large scale planned agriculture in a more surreptitious form, becoming prevalent in the Laguna government reclamation project further up and across the Colorado river. It's simply inevitable—the American type of agriculture cannot stand 100° Fahrenheit, prolonged for months and months.

The Democratic slate for delegates at large, headed by Senator David L. Walsh.

Hoover appears to have captured from 30 to 35 of the 39 Republican delegates, while Smith will have the solid block of 35 Democratic delegates.

Quiet in Pennsylvania.

Philadelphia, Pa., April 24.—(P)—With but a few local contests to attract voters to the polls, Pennsylvania recorded a light vote at its primary, today, in which delegates to the national conventions were elected. The candidates named for United States senator, state-wide, district and county offices.

The Republicans elected an unopposed delegation of 79 members to the Kansas City convention, and the Democrats voted to elect 76 to the national convention at Houston.

Representative George P. Darrow, Republican, was renominated from Philadelphia, 10th, on the face of returns from more than two-thirds of the district over J. Hampton Moore, former mayor of Philadelphia. Returns from 170 of the 245 election divisions in the district gave Darrow a lead of 8,000.

Returns from 2,289 out of 8,451 districts showed that candidates favoring the nomination of Gov. Al Smith for the presidency and two opposed to him were leading for the eight places for Democratic delegates at large. There were thirteen candidates.

Joseph F. Guffey, of Pittsburgh, Democratic national committeeman, said Gov. Smith was assured of sixty-six votes at the national convention.

In the 15th congressional district, where Mrs. Cornelia Bryce Pinchot, wife of former Gov. Pinchot, fought Representative Louis T. McFadden for the Democratic nomination, Mr. McFadden had a lead of less than 300 with about one-fourth of the district heard from.

Count of Delegates

Washington, D. C., April 24.—(Special.)—Delegates elected to the national conventions line up as follows:

REPUBLICAN

Instructional	Delegates	Total
Illinois	127	200
Ohio	42	157
Michigan	37	11
North	39	29
West	13	11
Uncounted	—	27

Hoover total includes 22 Michigan delegates counted by primary result, only part of which have been named by the state.

DEMOCRATIC

Instructional	Delegates	Total
Illinois	200	211
Ohio	20	20
George	20	25
Illinoian	10	10
Uncounted	—	40

Smith total includes 20 Michigan delegates counted by primary result but not yet to be counted by convention.

"favorite son" was informed for the Democratic presidential nomination by the Kansas state Democratic convention here today, and the state's twenty delegates to the Houston convention were instructed to support him.

In a fight to defeat the resolution were the supporters of Senator James A. Reed of Missouri, who previously had won an opening skirmish by electing an avowed supporter of the Missouri as chairman of the convention.

Lowden and Curtis.

Oklahoma City, Okla., April 24.—(P)—Proponents of the presidential candidates of Senator Charles Curtis of Kansas and former Gov. Frank O. Lowden of Illinois reigned supreme today in the Republican state convention here.

The Oklahoma delegation at large, which arrived in a resolution adopted by the convention to cast their four votes for the two midwestern men at Kansas City "in such order and at such time as the balloting progresses." A test vote showed 843 delegates to favor the resolution, with 242 against it.

TREES EULOGIZED AS 5,000 MORE ARE PUT IN WOODS

County Does Share in National Forest Week.

The tree was eulogized as man's best friend yesterday by Ransom E. Kennicott, Cook county's chief forester, as he was directing the planting of 5,000 mulberry, wild cherry and hard maple trees in the forest preserves in observance of America Forest week.

"A tree makes a home site out of a vacant lot," he opined. "It is the most practical of nature's gifts as lumber and living, it is the most beautiful.

"The woods in the preserves that skirt the city are Chicago's best friend. In addition to a natural playground, they form a tempering hand to the dry, hot winds from the west in the summer time.

Winter and Summer Aids.

"Each of the 100,000 trees in the preserves throws up four gallons of water during a hot day, cooling the winds like a fan. It is the system of the movie houses. In the winter time the trees moderate blizzards by radiating the earth's higher temperature."

Mr. Kennicott is planting an unusually large number of mulberry and wild cherry trees in the preserves this spring because of their value as bird food providers. Birds are being encouraged to take residence in the woods to save the ash trees from a scale that is threatening to wipe them out.

"We have used sprays, the ax and fire in fighting the scale, but the most effective enemy of the infestation is the bird," the forester said. "It is the nest of a tiny, flying insect. The disease would never have gained its present headway if there had been enough birds on the job."

Children Are Instructed.

M. S. Szymczak, superintendent of the forest preserve, is teaching Boy Scouts and school children to plant, to care for and to love trees as his contribution toward the observance of American Forest week.

"We are teaching the children sprouts out of our nursery and helping them in the planting," Mr. Szymczak said. "The few trees that will be grown is of small importance compared to the lesson it teaches the youngsters in appreciating nature. A boy or girl who has taken an intimate interest in a particular tree will not break down the limbs of his neighbor's elm nor use a little red ax on his father's cherry tree."

FALLS TO DEATH IN COAL BIN.

FOUR PERISH; 6,000 FLEE; MILLIONS LOSS IN SOUTHERN FLOODS

Atlanta, Ga., April 24.—(AP)—Every precaution was being taken tonight to avert disaster as the crest of the most devastating flood in many years bore swiftly down upon the flat coastal lands of Georgia, Alabama, and northwestern Florida.

Flomaton, Ala., was menaced by the flood, twelve and a half miles north. Brewton, wealthy lumber and crossroads city, was inundated, and nearly a thousand persons driven from their homes.

Nearly a hundred miles east of Flomaton, Caryville, Fla., evacuated last night, was under from six to twelve feet of water.

Estimates of the homeless varied from 2,000 to 6,000, with many others expected to seek higher ground during the night.

Fast passenger trains between New York, Chicago and New Orleans were marooned and afterwards detoured into Mississippi.

VALUE OF CROPS CUT 17% IN TWO YEARS, I. C. C. TOLD

The income of Illinois farmers from raising crops and raising other than live stock, has declined 17 per cent in the last two years, the interstate commerce commission was told yesterday at its hearing on proposed adjustment of freight rates on live stock.

O. W. Sandberg, director of transport, presented numerous claims to show that the prosperity claimed by the railroads for the farmer is exaggerated. The railroads are asking freight increases and the farmers wish reductions.

In 1926, the first year after the Hoadley-Smith resolution was passed by congress, ordering an investigation to determine whether a readjustment of freight rates would aid the farmer, the income of Illinois farms from field, garden and orchard crops was $441,222,000. For 1927 the income from these sources was $383,482,000. Mr. Sandberg said.

SAYS PULLMAN PORTERS' VOTES FAVOR STRIKING

A nation-wide strike of 7,300 Pullman porters is inevitable within a short time if the Pullman company persists in its refusal to recognize the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters as the national representative and working conditions before the United States mediation board. It was declared last night by Roy Lancaster, general secretary and treasurer of the brotherhood, in a statement in New York.

A total of 5,074 members of the union have voted in favor of a strike, while only 26 voted no, he stated.

In addition to recognition, the union asks a wage of $150 per month of 40 hours, without tips. Porters now receive a minimum pay of $72.50 per month of 11,000 miles, with tips.

CITES UTILITIES FEES TO LENROOT AND R. W. CHILD

Witness Tells of Growth of Power Bodies.

Washington, D. C., April 24.—(AP)—Payment of substantial fees to former Senator Irvine L. Lenroot of Wisconsin and Richard Washburn Child, former ambassador to Italy, by the joint committee of national utilities associations, was revealed today in the federal trade commission's public utility financing investigation.

Ira L. Grimeshaw of New York, assistant director of the joint committee, testified that Lenroot received $20,000 to oppose the Walsh resolution proposing the inquiry before the senate interstate commerce committee, and that Child was paid $7,500 for writing a book for the joint committee about the proposed Boulder dam project.

Identifies Payments.

Producing an account book taken from the files of the joint committee, Robert E. Healy, chief counsel for the committee, identified the names of certain payments noted in it. Grimeshaw said that Lenroot was given a $10,000 retainer early this year and a like payment on March 16, 1926. He also testified that $5,000 had been advanced to Ernest Greenwood, a former Washington newspaper man, for publicity, and that J. Bart. Campbell, a Washington newspaper man, was receiving $150 a month.

George H. Francis of New York, auditor for the joint committee and the association, testified that the association testified that besides its more than $1,000,000 yearly income the association has handled a special fund for educational research at Harvard, Johns Hopkins, and Michigan universities, and other institutions.

The larger power companies contribute to this fund in addition to the amount of the deficiencies incurred by the association, he said.

Association Grows Rapidly.

The sudden increase in the activity of the joint committee last year was gone into by Mr. Healy and Commissioner Edgar A. McCulloch. Grimeshaw said the committee had only $700 when it was reorganized June 1, 1927, and within a few months had more than $400,000, had opened a Washington office, and had increased personnel. The committee is composed of representatives of the National Electric association, the American Gas association, and the American Street Railway association.

RUBBER MAGNATE GIVES MILLIONS TO HIS RELATIVES

New York, April 24.—[Special.] The will of James B. Ford, 64, first vice president of the United States Rubber company and veteran yachtsman, who died on March 29, at the Hotel Mansfield, leaving an estate of more than $10,000,000, was filed for probate today. It bequeathed more than $800,000 specifically to various charities and at least $1,000,000 each to many of his first cousins and nieces relatives.

After making the specific bequests to charity Mr. Ford divided the residue of his estate in such a way that each of ten of his near relatives will receive one-thirteenth, and the other three-tenths will be subdivided among other relatives.

The largest charitable and charitable bequests were $200,000 to the New York Institute for the Deaf and Dumb; $100,000 to the American Geographical Society; $100,000 to the Lincoln Hospital and Home of the City of New York; $50,000 to the Explorers' Club, and $50,000 to the Museum of the American Indian Heya Foundation.

Mrs. Constance Robertson Foster, 1351 North State parkway, won a divorce from Superior Judge John J. Sullivan from Lucia F. Foster, young paper manufacturer. The court indicated she will be awarded a decree on the grounds of cruelty.

Mrs. Foster, in response to questions by her attorney John J. McMahon, testified that her husband treated her roughly while drinking, and that he drank frequently. Under an out-of-court settlement Mr. Foster agreed to pay his wife $350 a month for the support of their children, Alice and Lucius Jr., 7 and 5 years old, the judge was told.

The Fosters were wed on April 18, 1918, while he was attending Yale university.

The largest initiational and charitable bequests were $200,000 to the New York Institute for the Deaf and Dumb; $100,000 to the American Geographical Society; $100,000 to the Lincoln Hospital and Home of the City of New York; $50,000 to the Explorers' Club, and $50,000 to the Museum of the American Indian Heya Foundation.

TRIBUTE IS PAID TO MEMORY OF WILLIAM KENT

Resolutions paying tribute to William Kent, former Chicago political leader, who died on March 13 at his home near San Rafael, Cal., were unanimously adopted yesterday at a meeting of the executive committee of the Municipal Voters' league.

"No man realized more fully than William Kent how Chicago after the world's fair, was being sold into the hands of speculators," the resolutions stand. "The padding of franchises and the grabbing of public streets he fought with denunciation so just, so keen, so clear as to leave no room for reply, when in the midst of the gray wolves he scourged them for their old greed and shamelessness.

His noble character, his work, his wife's knowledge of public affairs, and his extraordinary gift of stating the truth in pictures phrases made his work more memorable than any other man's in the history of the city.

THE TREMLETT NECKTIE

THIS Tremlett tie is carefully shaped by the adept employment of five or seven fabric-folds, depending on the weight of the material used. Consequently, no lining is needed. It ties easily into a small, neat knot—and, because of its construction, retains the freshness of a new necktie for an amazingly long time. The famous English creator of this ingenious arrangement is Tremlett. His Paris and London shops are well known to men who buy smart neckwear. The materials securable in these ties are English hand-loomed Spitalfields, French crepes, English twills and foulards. The prices range from $3.50 to $6.00.

HINTS EVOLUTION MAY BE RESULT OF LIGHT RAYS

Texan Creates a Race of Flies with Radiation.

Washington, D. C., April 24.—(AP)—New evidence of the effects of X-rays in changing the hereditary characteristics of fruit flies, suggesting that all evolution may be the result of stray radiation of powerful light rays, was presented before the National Academy of Sciences today by Dr. H. J. Muller of the University of Texas.

Dr. Muller's achievement in establishing new races of fruit flies by subjecting the genes and chromosomes of normal parent stock to X radiation was announced at the Nashville meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Sciences in December, and was awarded the association's annual $1,000 prize. He appeared before the National Academy today by invitation.

He apparently has determined, he said, that the mutations brought about by X-ray treatment are not only stable, continuing as inherited characteristics of the new species, but that they are not the result of the knocking of genes, or heredity, carrying units, out of the chromosomes in which they are combined. No such change is indicated, he declared, the genes apparently absorbing units of the rays and thus changing their fundamental nature.

With his associate, Dr. Edgar Altenburg, he has established that the chromosomes themselves, which are large enough for study with the microscope, can be broken and then the resulting fragment will attach itself to a different chromosome having like genes, resulting in what he described as "line mutations" in the progeny.

Inviting the cooperation of physicians to determine whether the Millikan, or cosmic, ray and other forces of radiation affect evolution, he called at Supports Ray Theory.

Recent experiments in his laboratory at the University of Texas, in which he attempted to obtain mutation by subjecting the parent flies to doses of lead, arsenic and heat, he said, brought about no changes, further supporting the ray theory. Similar negative results were obtained by Dr. Altenburg with ultra-violet rays.

Injury, excitement, exhaustion and disease were discussed in terms of electrical potentials in papers read before the academy.

Considering each cell of the body as an individual electrical battery having positive and negative poles, Dr. George W. Crile of Cleveland, presented a series of graphs showing the effects of various degrees of excitement and exhaustion on the different currents.

The positive charges, measured in thousandths of a volt, decline rapidly when the cells are subjected to harmful influences. As the charges approach zero, death approaches. With death, the cells lose their electrical capacity.

WALB, BANKER DODGE BLAME FOR BANK'S WOES

Port Wayne, Ind., April 24.—(Special)—Clyde A. Walb, former Republican state chairman, and the Walb Construction company, of which he was president, owed the First National Bank of La Grange $148,000 on Sept. 30, 1925, while the capital stock of the bank was listed at only $100,000, with $25,000 surplus. It was revealed at the trial in federal court of Walb and Valentine D. Weaver, former president of the bank, for violating the national bank laws.

Testimony to that effect was given by G. A. Paulson, department of justice investigator, who told of his investigation for the government. He also declared that the bank had in its possession on June 31, 1925, forged notes for $10,000.

The feature of today's session was the confession made in October last year by Weaver to John Utt, federal bank examiner, which was presented by the government.

The confession was apparently a surprise to Walb's attorneys, and it was at once evident that each of the defendants was trying to shift the blame to the other.

In his confession Weaver related that he illegally used $7,000 bonds entrusted to the bank by three customers for safekeeping. Two thousand dollars he illegally included in the bank's assets; $4,000 he illegally sold and $1,000 he stole. The $7,000 derived thereby were given to the La Grange Hardware company of which Clyde A. Walb was part owner.

He further confessed that in 4 years he forged checks up to between $100,000 to $200,000 and numerous notes.

210 MILLION TAX CUT PLANNED BY G. O. P. SENATORS

No Auto Levy; Theater Exemption $3.

(Chicago Tribune Free Service.)
Washington, D. C., April 24.—[Special.]—Republican members of the senate finance committee agreed today upon a program for an aggregate tax reduction of $10 million dollars.

The total is a little in excess of the 200 million dollars maximum fixed by Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, but conforms much more closely to the administration program than the 250 million dollar cut provided in the house bill. The program follows the recommendations of Secretary Mellon, except as to the repeal of automobile taxes, which was approved over his protest.

High Points in Program.

Chief features of the program include:

Reduction in the tax on corporation earnings from 13 1/2 to 12 1/2 per cent, effective on 1929 payments of earnings of 1928.

An increase in the exemption for corporations with earnings not in excess of $25,000 from $2,000 to $2,500.

Reduction in individual surtaxes in brackets between $18,000 and $78,000, effective on 1928 payments of earnings of 1927.

Repeal of the manufacturers' 3 per cent excise tax on automobiles.

Repeal of the federal estate tax.

An increase in exemptions on theater admissions from 75 cents to $2.

Reduction in the tax on grape wines.

Repeal of the tax on cereal beverages.

Democrats Have Plan.

The Republicans submitted their program to the Democrats of the finance committee, and the latter will offer a substitute program Thursday.

Senator Simmons (Dem., N. C.), ranking minority member, said that the Democrats would propose an aggregate tax reduction of at least three hundred million dollars.

The Democrats at a conference today favored the acceptance of most of the Republican cuts, but also expressed approval of a further reduction of the corporation tax to 11 or 11 1/2 per cent, and a wiping out of other miscellaneous taxes, such as those on club dues and transactions on produce exchanges.

The cut in the corporation tax from 13 1/2 to 12 1/2 per cent would mean a loss in revenue of $22,000,000. The increased exemption for small corporations would add $12,000,000. The scaling down of intermediate surtax brackets would mean a loss of $25,000,000, or only about half as much as the surtax reductions proposed by Secretary Mellon.

Auto Tax $65,000,000.

The repeal of the automobile tax would mean a loss of $65,000,000. The increase in theater admission exemptions would involve $17,000,000 and the reduction and repeal of the taxes on grape wines and cereal beverages would add $11,200,000 to the reductions.

The estate tax repeal would cut off only $7,000,000 in revenue the first year, but in later years would wipe out $40,000,000 or more.

Easy to get -a paint job that lasts

With these two partners—a skilled professional painter and pure lead paint—you can be sure of lasting and economical protection for your home against the weather

HERE'S all you have to do. Select a skilled painter... experienced... the man who uses pure lead paint. For generations pure lead paint, such as he obtains with Dutch Boy white-lead, has been the standard for durability among the craftsmen of the painting profession.

Employing a skilled painter to apply Dutch Boy white-lead paint is real painting economy. Such paint spreads farther, has greater hiding power... lasts longer... does not crack or scale. It saves money on repaintings in future years... because it remains intact and smooth... does not require burning or scraping off—an expensive job.

The skilled painter is an established member of your community. He guards his reputation by doing first class work and using quality materials, like Dutch Boy white-lead.

No fly-by-night painter can duplicate his work. Nor will he be a pure white-lead user.

By mixing Dutch Boy white-lead with linseed oil, the skilled painter produces a superior gloss paint for exterior painting. He mixes it with Dutch Boy flatting oil to make a flat paint for interiors which can be washed thoroughly and frequently without harming the paint film.

Dutch Boy white-lead, in either heavy paste or soft paste form, is sold by leading paint dealers.

New paint booklet

Write our nearest office for the booklet, "The House We Live In." It contains important facts about painting... tells how to select colors for exterior and interior work.

This trademark, a guarantee of high quality, is on all Dutch Boy products—white-lead, red-lead, linseed oil, flatting oil, solder, soldering metal. It is the trademark of National Lead Company which manufactures lead products for the hundreds of uses for which lead is especially fitted in art, industry and daily life.

C. W. FOLDS, 57, COMMERCIAL AND CIVIC LEADER, DIES

Life Is Story of Rise from Messenger Boy.

(Picture on back page.) Charles Weston Folds, 57 years old, for many years prominent in commercial, civic and charitable circles of Chicago, died yesterday afternoon at his apartment at 108 East Walton place. He had been suffering from heart trouble since January, and was a patient in the Presbyterian hospital until a month ago, when he was removed to the Walton place address.

At his bedside when he died were his wife, Mrs. Florence Symonds Folds; his four children—Weston, Weston, George R. and Charles; Mrs. Florence Symonds Folds of Chicago; his twin brother, George R. Folds; his sister, Miss Charlotte Folds of Evans-ton, and Mrs. Weston Folds.

From Messenger Boy Up.

Born in Oshkosh, Wis., Aug. 23, 1870, Charles Folds had risen largely by his own initiative to positions of trust and confidence in Chicago best measured by the posts he occupied at his death. From bank messenger in Minneapolis, he came to Chicago as manager of Charles Hathaway & Co., bankers, Chicago office, and was continuously promoted to the position of vice president of Folds, Buck & Co., chairman of the board of the Eddy Paper corporation and the Federal Securities corporation, and was connected with a number of other firms in Chicago and in other cities.

His numerous activities included heading the Liberty loan drive in Chicago during the war; chairmanship of the American Legion $500,000 campaign in Illinois three years ago; president of the Union Chapter of Chicago; in the five years; national treas- ury of the Imaik Walton league, and chairmanship of the Chicago executive committee of the Roosevelt me- morial campaign.

Funeral Rites Tomorrow.

He was also a director of the Home for Destitute Crippled Children, chairman of the Boys' Club federation of the middle west, secretary of the North Central Improvement association, a director of the Chicago Crime commission and the Union League Foundation for Boys' Clubs, a member of the executive committee of the Near East Relief, a governing member of the Art Institute, and was connected in Episcopal church work.

His clubs were the Chicago, the Uni- versity, the Old Elm, the Attic, Union League, Bankers', and Owntown. His family home was at Lake Forest.

Funeral arrangements are planned for 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at the Church of the Holy Spirit at Lake Forest.

AERIAL BEACON FOR NIGHT FLYING STARTED IN LOOP

Work on the aerial beacon atop of the Roanoke tower, La Salle and Madison streets, was started yesterday, according to an announcement by the Greenebaum Sons Investment company.

The steel tower will rise 45 feet from the roof to an elevation of 520 feet above the sidewalk. The Federal Electric company will furnish the electrical equipment, including 24 neon light units. There will be two rotating beacon searchlights of 8,000,000 beam candlepower each. One projector will be used later as a direction light indicating the location of the new landing field in Grant park.

After the light is in operation it will be inspected by William P. McCracken Jr., assistant secretary of commerce for aeronautics, and other government officials who are eager to learn of its fog penetration power. It is expected that the light will be visible in clear weather for a distance of 100 miles.

Elmer Thrills to Programs in Radio Theater

'Romeo and Juliet' Words Pack Wallop.

BY ELMER DOUGLASS.

Filled with talent was the stage of radio's spacious theater last evening, as crowded and as enthusiastic must have been the vast audience in the aerial auditorium.

Shakespeare's immortal heroes and heroines were there; Elsie Ferguson and Pedro de Cordoba brought them. Katherine Witwer, Hilda Burke, soprano; James Houghton, baritone, and Harry H. Holtzman, pianist, were winners of the National Federation of Music Clubs contest, were there. Also there was the Hamilton club male chorus of sixty glorious male voices.

First and foremost in this princely pageant was Elsie Ferguson, of past, present, and future historic fame, New York W-G-N 8 to 9 program, reciting, by way of introduction, Wile's fairy story, "Selph Giant," to orchestra and piano. The Miss Ferguson became her Romeo, and together they lived over again for us their marvelous balcony scene. Finally, we suffered alone with Juliet as she drank the poison, that she might be at Los Angeles.

It was a charming pathway along which the music club winners led us. New York KYW, 8 to 9. Hilda Burke's strong soprano voice aroused great applause. Hazel Hallett, pianist, won deaf admiration, because of tone, depth of detail, and breadth of expression. James Houghton, baritone, displayed a very full toned voice evidently suited for concert work. Lastly, Katherine Witwer of Chicago swept this admiring enthusiasm virtually without bounds. I think I never have heard more birdlike tones from a human throat. Gary, Ind., your financing club will be richly rewarded.

Hamilton club chorus, WMQ, 8:15 to 10, was an evening's concert in itself, and the applause from here was as loud and as prolonged as it was from a local audience. Their program was an ideal combination of sturdy, stirring numbers containing musical weight and merit and with some meritorious popular numbers. Their singing by the entire chorus was solid stirring silver, and their four soloists sang admirably. They worthily close the curtain on a rarely fine evening.

Wilkins Awarded Medal of Geographical Society

New York, April 24.—(AP)—For his three years' explorations in the arctic, culminating in his flight across the arctic basin, Capt. George K. Wilkins tonight was awarded the Samuel Flinley Breeze Morse gold medal, the highest honor in the bestowal of the American Geographical society.

Grandmother finds way to grow old gracefully

"I don't try to keep up the pace of the younger generation," says this 65-year-old woman. "I leave that to my grandchildren."

"But just because I lead a quiet life doesn't mean that I'm not perfectly well. I never feel better. Everything about me is normal and functions as it should. I make sure of that by taking Nujol regularly. Nujol keeps me in good condition."

When people become less active, Nujol becomes even more important for good health. For Nujol not only prevents the excess of body poisons (we all have them) from forming, but aids in their removal.

All of us—old and young alike—lead more or less sedentary lives. But Nujol helps make up for this lack of exercise. It keeps the body functioning as Nature intended. Even if you think you're perfectly well, try Nujol. It was perfected by the Nujol Laboratories of the Standard Oil Company (New Jersey). Take it for three months and just see if you don't feel better. Nujol can't possibly upset you. It contains absolutely no drugs or medicine. Be sure you get the genuine.

Deep Gauntlet
Cuffs on a Woman's Coat
$100

Impart a wealth of matronly dignity when fashioned in flat fur and used as a fabric is used. The collar frames the face and cleverly uses both fur and fabric in its design.

Navy blue, black and tan in kasha fabric and American broadtail.

Fourth Floor, North, State.

The Shoe Tree Meets The Mode with Economy

At $8, $9 and $10 choice may be made with the whole range of shoe fashions interpreted.

The shoe featured is a step-in buckle pump of patent leather, gunmetal or tan calfskin. $10. Another shoe in patent leather is $9.

Third Floor, East.

Women's Frocks, $55 After Patou

The subtlety and elegance that show in the technique of Patou have been retained in this frock of simple design. The circular tiers of the skirt end in a jabot drape at the left shoulder. Crepe Elizabeth in navy, red, aquamarine blue, sand. Center, above.

Fourth Floor, North, State.

Housedresses in Printed Peter Pan $1.95

A varied choice of very modern prints. And tucks and pleats and plain color bindings and bandings are concessions to the mode which requires that even work-a-day feminine apparel be "trimmed."

Third Floor, East.

Reboux's Jackie Sailor Is Presented Here Again

For it is the very hat for the smart nautical mode that prevails now. The brim encircles the round moulded crown in the way a sailor's cap turns back.

Felt in lipstick, coral, almond, black, navy, sandstone, mother goose. Satin or taffeta in black and navy. Sizes 21½ to 22½. This reproduction at $13.50.

"Ask Mr. Foster" for any information or assistance in planning a vacation anywhere in the world. All the irksome details of travel will be taken out of your hands. Or if you are undecided "Ask Mr. Foster" for a vacation suggestion. There is no charge for this service.

Ninth Floor, Wabash.

A Pin Fitting Means More Smart Frocks

More smart frocks with even less expenditure. Choose your fabric here in the fabric sections and call upon this expert in charge of this Pin Fitting service. Your frock will be cut, fitted and pinned.

Second Floor, North, State.

"Seventeen" Frocks, $27.50 For Youthful Women

Reflect the newer details of mode with a certain simplicity and nonchalance that is the chic of younger fashions.

The frock sketched is in Georgette crepe with the new cape back and diagonal tiers. In navy, powder blue, tan. Sizes 13, 15, 17. Above.

Fifth Floor, South, State.

Apparel Petite Fashions, $37.50 Successful for Short Women

Those details of the mode that are particularly becoming to shorter figures are the foundation of these frocks.

The frock sketched is in plain, printed or polka dot silk crepe. Note the slender lines in pleating and fagoting. Sketched center, above.

Fourth Floor, East.

Misses' Frocks, $45 In Printed Chiffon

So soft and flattering it is naturally sought with great preference by the very young woman. Large flower garden prints in natural colorings express a freshness and beauty for this frock. It is different with a yoke of plain color chiffon.

Fourth Floor, North, State.

Novelty Stripes In Wool Sweaters, $5.75

A sweater whose easy wear lends itself to active sports relinquishes superfluities in cut, but flaunts a swagger air in the variegated colors of its horizontal stripes. Slip-on style in several attractive combinations of colors.

Third Floor, North, State.

Foundation Garments Three Special Models

For the slight figure, an unboned side fastening garment of rayon whose elastic side panels terminate at the waistline has an elastic band under the arm to hold the uplift brassiere smoothly in place. Sizes 32 to 38. Sketched at center. $5.

The woman who wears a size up to 42 will find comfort in a side fastening combination, unboned, but well reinforced. Left. $7.50.

For the tall figure and frankly stout, a swami combination, sufficiently controlling although entirely unboned. Sizes to 48. $6.50.

New York, April 24.—[Special]—A stockholders of the American Brake and Foundry company have approved the proposed purchase of a substantial interest in the National Bearing Metals corporation, the stock of which is to be bought for cash. The common will be acquired by an exchange of stock. George M. Judd, secretary, was elected a director to succeed the late F. F. Fitzpatrick. Other directors were reelected.

The Vacuum Oil company has begun negotiations with the Medway Oil and Storage Company of Great Britain for an affiliation agreement, but has no interest in Russian companies, according to a statement by G. P. Whaley, Vacuum president.

Organization of the Texas Cities Gas company, which is a subsidiary of Union Utilities, Inc., will own and operate manufacturing and distributing systems in El Paso, Galveston, Waco, Paris, and Brenham, Tex., was announced.

Directors of the Southern Sugar company have elected two new members to the board, Jules M. Burguliers of Palm Beach, Fla., and J. K. Shaw of Minneapolis. The directors approved the action of the officers in purchasing $4,000 acres adjoining the company's present holdings at Clewiston and Canal Point, Fla.

Standard Oil Company of New Jersey today will advance the price of tank car gasoline one-quarter cent a gallon, making new prices 5½ cents at New York, Norfolk, and Baltimore, and 5½ cents at Charleston, S. C.

Johns-Manville corporation has purchased two contracts and adjoining its present buildings, Cal. holding present plans to complete a manufacturing plant larger than originally planned and also to give dock facilities to handle the large coastwise shipments. The extensions will cost about $2,000,000.

Congress Cigar company reports net profit for the first quarter equal to $1.18 a share on $50,000 no par shares, as compared with $1.62 for the first quarter of 1927.

Election of George W. Mason as president of Copeland Products, Inc., succeeding William Robert Wilson, who became chairman of the board, was announced.

A notice has been received by the New York stock exchange of a proposed increase in the authorized capital stock of Park & Tilford from 200,000 shares to 250,000 shares.

The tobacco stocks as a group were again the result of the market's recently announced. The stocks, however, as weak as they are Monday, United States Tobacco dropped badly and closed 5 points off. Wm. T. Myers was off 3 points the day and Liggett & Myers 2½ points.

GENERAL MOTORS HOLDS PLACE AS FIRST INDUSTRY

BY O. A. MATHER.

Three big industrial corporations whose stocks have furnished most of the fireworks in the stock market recently issued earnings reports for the first quarter of this year late yesterday. The General Motors corporation and the General Electric company did better than a year ago but the United States Steel corporation fell behind. General Motors maintained its position as the world's largest industrial earning concern. It set a new high record in quarterly earnings with $29,463,576, equivalent after preferred dividends to $3.56 a share on the common stock. This compares with net earnings of $22,551,408, or $2.90 a share, in the first quarter of 1927, considering the two-for-one split.

Steel's Earnings Shrink.

The United States Steel corporation reported net income of $25,507,133 for the first quarter. This was equivalent after preferred dividends to $2.11 a share on the common stock. Net income for the first quarter of 1927 was $26,924,738. This was equivalent to $2.50 a share on the common stock now outstanding, which was increased by a 40 per cent stock dividend.

The report, however, was a distinct improvement over the final quarter of 1927. Then net income was only $17,632,602, or $1.05 a share, and there was a deficit of $4,964,499 after paying dividends. But the first quarter of this year produced a surplus of $2,573,541 after dividends.

The Steel corporation this week is operating above 90 per cent of capacity, a gain of 15 per cent over a week ago. Independents show a slight decline. The average for the industry is above 85 per cent, compared with 84 a week ago, and 84 1/2 weeks ago.

General Electric Net Gains.

The General Electric company reported first quarter net profits available for the common stock at $11,264,495, or $1.58 a share. This compares with $11,028,145, or $1.53 a share a year ago. The gain in profits was accomplished in spite of a slight decline in business, as sales totalled $71,640,790, compared with $72,474,672 a year ago.

The Chicago Yellow Cab company reported first quarter net profits of $707,752, equivalent to $1.26 a share on the capital stock. This compares with $601,923, or $1.50 a share, a year ago. The lower earnings this year resulted from the company increasing its liability reserve. The company recently reduced its fares, but this has been offset by increased volume of business, according to President John Horts.

Stock in General Trade.

Yesterday also brought two disappointing news items. General Trade appears to be rather slack judging by the weekly report on the movement of commodities by the railroads. Revenue freight loading for the week ended April 11 totalled 151,377 cars, a decline of 6,519 from the preceding week and a decrease of 37,184 from a year ago. The current report shows a decrease in all commodities compared with the preceding week, except live stock, coal, and coke, which showed slight increases.

WHEAT ADVANCES AS SHORTS COVER CORN ALSO GAINS

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Wheat market was easy early, but strong commission houses absorbed the surplus in the pit, and prices advanced 2½@3½¢ from the 100 line with market gains covering developing on the way up, and the finish was at the top with net gains of 1½@2¢ with May leading. Corn closed 1½@2¢ higher with oats up 1½@2¢ and rye 2½@3¢.

News generally was favorable for holders of wheat with no rain reported in the southwest, and reports from the crop observers were decidedly bullish, with Illinois leading for 50 per cent of the 2,500,000 acres in northwestern Kansas to be abandoned. Forecast for rain in Nebraska and sadness in Liverpool had some effect early, but the market firms up quickly after the selling by the local element had been absorbed, and later stop loss orders were uncovered.

Corn interests were on the buying side of May wheat and there was a good demand from outside mills with No. 2 hard wheat offered at about 10¢ over May. The latter was 4¢ under July at the last against about 10¢ at the finish on Monday.

Cash interests were good buyers of May and sellers of July corn, and the spread narrowed from 3½¢ to 2½¢ at the close. Scattered liquidation by holders of May was readily absorbed, and commission houses and local generally were on the buying side of the more deferred delivery.

May futures sold slightly advanced to 4½¢, equalizing the high point on the crop on an effort to find a moderate buying order by a commission house.

Offerings were light on the way up.

LARD AND MEATS HIGHER

Lard and meats were liberally traded in and leading eastern interests taking profits on all deliveries of lard on the advance. The market was firm, and prices were moderate, and prices 10¢ higher. This with the market gains covering the effect on provision values. Lard in Liverpool had some effect early, but the more deferred delivery.

May futures sold slightly advanced to 4½¢, equalizing the high point on the crop on an effort to find a moderate buying order by a commission house.

Offerings were light on the way up.

CASH·GRAIN NEWS

Export sales of 200,000 to 300,000 bushels were reported in all positions. There were foreign inquiries for rye, but no sales were actually reported.

Market gains grain prices in leading markets follows:

Real Life Drama
Between the Acts
at the Theater
Mr Gladys Huntington

It was the first intermission, in the women's rest room of the theater. A small line had formed outside the open telephone booth.

The first one waiting to make a call was a sophisticated, smartly dressed girl with long gold earrings and a cigarette holder in her hand. HE, I thought, is waiting for the honeyed words that will drop from those red lips. At last the booth was vacated, she moved in, and her nickel went clink in the slot.

"Rivulet 10,000."

"Hello, hello Nanny. Is that you? How is the baby? Did she stop crying after I left? She did . . . the lamb! Well, go and feel of her neck and if she's in perspiration, put the screen behind the crib. All right . . . that's all . . . good-bye." And snap went the receiver on the hook.

A dazzling blonde, very much made up, was next in line. I listened shamelessly.

"West End 8080. . . . No, I said 8089 . . . hello . . . is that you, Bill? . . . yes, it's a peach of a show . . . a regular wow . . . I suppose it's because I haven't been to one for the last month . . . Well, listen dearie, I forgot to put the lime water in the baby's last feeding. You'll have to open the bottle and put it in . . . Goodness! I don't know . . . well, look at the formula and put in a quarter of the amount there . . . Yeah, I will, Bill . . . Good-bye."

A smile of mutual understanding shone from her to the serious, almost dowdily-dressed woman who stepped up to the phone next. After much waiting she got her number.

"Hello, Margaret, what was the matter—why didn't you answer? I thought . . . O, she's all right?

I thought maybe she'd run a fever again. Well, I called up to tell you that it's turned bitterly cold and windy and you'd better get out the wool comforter and throw it over Janey's feet, later . . . before you go to bed . . . O, there's the bell for the curtain . . . I must run . . . good-bye."

Did you ever go to the theater like this—your thoughts hovering over those scenes, big little, sick or well, lying asleep in homes?

Day's Society News

BY THALIA

The next idea about things so far is that "everything is dead." Not so, except that there aren't any more evening parties of consequence. There seem to me to be pretty lively, however, but there are just as many evening hours and witness the gathering place almost every day, representative people lending their presence and their support to acts of interests, if you think it's possible to drum up a smart crowd. For example, consider the important group of names who are to help at the 25th anniversary of Mrs. John T. Bryan's house at 1430 Astor tomorrow and Friday. Mrs. McCormick, Mrs. Edward B. Kellogg, Mrs. Charles D. Frey, and Laurence Robbins, who run the will be there, and will be assisted by Mrs. Clive Runnells, Mrs. Hutchinson, Mrs. Chauncey McCormick, Mrs. Edward B. Kellogg, Mrs. Merritt Woodward, Mrs. Clifford Wood, and Mrs. Dekoven Phelps. Mrs. Edward L. Hyson Jr., Mrs. James Edward, Miss Marie Roset, and Mrs. Bryan.

And of course the Junior league won't have its annual meeting and election of officers on Friday week if there wouldn't be a good majority, or it is questionable. The meeting is to be at the Casino. Brains 'n' Charm
Are Roller Skates Beauty Glides On

The face value of the maid that went a-milking was a fortune in her day. But if you are within rumbling distance of the war that we are told London is enjoying at the moment you'll hear that a beautiful face is an asset, but it is not an essential. In other words, you can get your gallant without a fortune in your face.

It seems the debate revolves around the question of whether beauty is necessary for the achievement of social success. Going back a bit, the question was stirred by opposing advertising forces. Copyright was claimed on the phrase: "Youthful appearance is a social necessity, not a luxury." A rival concern used the phrase, ascribed to Diogenes, that "Beauty is the best letter of introduction." There was difficulty in reconciling the gentleman whose life was spent in a tub to authorship of the beauty line, so the court record shows.

But an old German proverb was dug up that read: "Beauty is a good letter of introduction."

But what introduced the subject or a parlor excitement was the comment of one of the presiding judges in his summary. He said, "A great many women who are not beautiful have become celebrated." Then, with the self-preserving instincts of the drowning man, he added: "Of course, I am only speaking of those who are dead."

The ones who are not beautiful are celebrated, no doubt, given concerned. And likewise those who are beautiful and celebrated and those who are neither. For it is a question of momental importance to every woman to know the value of beauty as an aid to feminine success, not only in society, but in business and in the professions.

The consensus, it appears, is that beauty is a good letter of introduction, but brains and charm are quite as good friends to recommend you.

All of which is pretty much "here we go round the mulberry bush." Any woman with brains and charm is bound to be pretty good looking. She would not have charm if she were dowdy or badly groomed and if she had brains she could not let her physical being suffice for a lack of repair and general upkeep, would she?

Beauty, repeated by a pretty face with an empty head behind it, might have served as a ruse upon which to pin an argument a century ago, but hardly today when charm and brains are considered quite as important ingredients in the beauty formula as a pleasing face.

FARM AND GARDEN
BY FRANK RIDGEWAY

Scientists have now found a practical way to eliminate the cause of halitosis in cattle and bad odors in milk common among cows allowed to graze along fence rows where there is wild garlic and wild onions growing. It has been found that any heavy oil will turn the trick and an oil can may be used as a balm to squirt the oil on the patches of garlic and onions.

It is common for cattle to eat the tons of these wild plants in early summer, which causes the milk to have a garlic and onion odor. The most practical way to keep these odors out of milk is to kill the patches of wild garlic and wild onions that grow in this part of the country. Hansen of Purdue university advises farmers to saturate the patches with a heavy oil during April. The sets form during May and after that oiling a little value.

Hoosier farmers are finding that any heavy grade of oil will do. W. A. Crum of Chesterton, Ind., says he had good results with waste crank case oil diluted with one-fourth kerosene. He applied it with a spray. J. T. Carr, also of Chesterton, reports that he completely eradicated five garlic beds by using ordinary kerosene oil.

Hansen advises checking up on the sprayed areas for at least two weeks afterward because plants may spring up from hard shelled bulbs that lie dormant in the soil. He says that the main trick is to saturate the tops of the plants with a heavy oil that will adhere to the foliage and work its way into the bulbs.

Taffeta Evening Gowns Are Popular

by Corinne Lowe

NEW YORK.—Special Correspondence.—Don't desert the hip—this seems to be the chosen motto of the designer of this year. It is for this reason we find all those flared draperies and puffs and bows and what not that distinguish so many of the latest evening frocks and that have even invaded the afternoon frocks. Yet though the general motivation of such cosidie effects is the same, there is a vast number of differentiations. Apparently each designer has his own idea of how to do it.

In this model of a taffeta evening frock from Martial et Armand we get a brand new interpretation of the mode. This famous French house gets a new effect from an old idea by its use of detached panels well toward the front of the hip. Such panels nearly always have the rippling circular movement described here, and they fall into a general line which makes for a preservation of the slim silhouette in the face of all boudoir.

The movement of this model is especially interesting, as it is accompanied by the very raised waist line which Martial et Armand are using this year, and also by an enormous bustle of soft material on the shoulder. Tiny tufts are used to define the waist line, one of unusual curves and angles, and seams describe a shallow round yoke combined with a movement under the arms.

In color this frock is interesting, for it repeats the experiment of using navy blue of evenings. Skirt draperies and the shoulder bow are lined with white satin.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

Witty, Wite."

At normal our penmanship instructor was a diffident young man with a decided limp. His "One, two—wedge-wit!" repeated constantly during the course of a writing lesson became so familiar, that we dubbed him Witty. Wite. Not so bad, we thought, in view of the fact that his hair was red and his name was White.

One day he was summoned from the room and asked me to take charge of the class during his absence. I stepped to the blackboard, and as soon as the door had closed upon him, began with great gusto, to render an imitation of our absent teacher in my very best style.

With my back to my audience I tore off ovals and capitals with a flourish while I counted. "One, two, wedge-wit, one, two, wedge-wit," repeated over and over again, the laughter I had expected a dead silence.

Instinctively I turned toward the doorway and there grim understanding written upon his countenance, stood Mr. Witty Wite, himself. J. S.

Doctor at 83 Found People Preferred His Prescription

The basis of treating sickness has not changed since Dr. Caldwell left Medical College in 1875, nor since he placed on the market the laxative prescription he had used in his practice, known to druggists and the public since 1893 as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Peppermint.

Then, the treatment of constipation, biliousness, headaches, mental depression, indigestion, sour stomach and other indispositions that result from constipation was entirely by means of simple vegetable laxatives, herbs and roots. They are still the basis of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Peppermint, which is a combination of senna and other mild cathartic herbs with peppermint.

Dr. Caldwell did not approve of drastic purges and purgatives. He did not believe they were good for human beings to put into their system. 14 grown women to use them no one can deny them the privilege, but they should never be given to children.

The simpler the remedy for constipation, the safer for the child, and for you, the safer for the general health of all. And as you can get results in a mild and safe way by using Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Peppermint, why take chances with strong drugs? All drug stores have the generous bottles.

Improved Kotex

Shaped to fit
Softened to ease
Fashioned to protect

For sale everywhere at new low prices

GREATHLY increased usage makes it possible to reduce the price of Kotex, permanently.

A million new women have adopted Kotex in the past few months. They came to it as a result of the 2 major improvements we recently announced.

Kotex is now form-fitting. It has no awkward bulkiness to mar smooth slender lines. It is far softer, sleeker, than ever before.

These two great improvements, coupled with Kotex' other exclusive features, bring perfect peace-of-mind—absolute comfort.

Kotex was the first water-soluble pad—hence disposal is no problem. It is the most absorbent—absorbing 16 times its own weight in moisture, and distributing it in such a manner as to obviate harsh, "waterproof" backing.

Kotex deodorizes, another important point. And it is bought without hesitancy at any drug, department or dry goods store. Get a box at the new low price today.
